Register IBM Cloud: <https://ibm.biz/Bdqhih>

The screenshot shows the IBM Cloud account creation interface. On the left, a sidebar titled "Create an account" is visible, divided into three sections: "1. Account information", "2. Verify email", and "3. Personal information". The first section is highlighted with a red border. It contains fields for "Email" (with placeholder "Enter an email address.") and "Password" (with a visibility icon). Below these is a "Next" button with a downward arrow. The second section contains a "Verify email" link. The third section contains a "Create account" button with a right-pointing arrow. At the bottom of the sidebar, a copyright notice reads "© Copyright IBM Corp. 2014, 2020. All rights reserved." On the right side of the page, there is a large promotional area with a dark background and a blue diagonal shape. It features the text "Build for free on IBM Cloud", "Develop for free, no credit card required", "Access the full catalog at your fingertips", and "Upgrade your account and unlock 190+ unique offerings, plus get a $200 credit to use with any offering you want.". A "Catalog" and "Docs" link is located at the top right of the main content area. A "Cookie Preferences" link is located at the bottom right.

2) Get Feature Code: <https://developer.ibm.com/callforcode/featurecode/>

Enter the confirmation code : CFC2020!

Click on the “Request a code” button

The screenshot shows the IBM Call for Code landing page. At the top, there's a navigation bar with the IBM logo, a search bar, and a menu icon. Below the header, there's a large banner image of a stormy beach with waves crashing against a pier. Overlaid on the left side of the banner is the text "CALL FOR CODE™" in large, bold, white and blue letters. To the right of the banner, the main content area has a title "Obtain an IBM Cloud feature code". Below the title is a paragraph explaining the purpose of the form: to receive a unique IBM Cloud feature code to upgrade a Lite account. It mentions that the code allows up to 2 GB of Cloud Foundry runtime memory and the ability to create IBM Kubernetes Service free clusters. A link to enter the unique feature code under account settings is provided. At the bottom, there's a form field labeled "Please enter your confirmation code:" with a red border around the input field. The confirmation code "CFC2020!" is typed into the field. A red arrow points from the number "1" to the input field. Below the input field is a blue button labeled "Request a code" with a red border. A red arrow points from the number "2" to this button. To the right of the "Request a code" button, the text "Code = CFC2020!" is displayed in red.

3) Go to: <https://cloud.ibm.com/account/settings>

Click the “Apply code” and insert the Feature Code.

The screenshot shows the IBM Cloud account settings interface. The left sidebar is dark with white text, showing navigation options like Account resources, Best practices, Resource groups, Cloud Foundry orgs, Licenses, Tags, Audit log, Account settings (which is highlighted with a blue bar), Notifications, Company contacts, and Company profile. The main content area has a light gray background. At the top, there's a search bar, a magnifying glass icon, and links for Catalog, Docs, Support, Manage, and Weyio Coiva's Account. On the far right, there are icons for a file, edit, bell, and user profile. A vertical 'FEEDBACK' button is on the far right edge. The main content starts with 'Account settings' and 'Account' information (Weyio Coiva's Account, ID: 598a5058a5c047b7a4b6161c8d5e0560). It then shows 'Account Type' (Trial (Free)) with 187 days remaining. Below that is a note about the trial period. Under 'Account upgrade', there are sections for 'Pay-As-You-Go' (with a 'Add credit card' button) and 'Subscription' (with a 'Upgrade' button and a 'Contact sales' link). Finally, the 'Subscription and feature codes' section contains text about how codes add platform and support credit or unlock capabilities, followed by a red-bordered 'Apply code' button at the bottom.
